

“Room Service™
Remotely Possible™”

Thank You my Client!

Thank you very much for allowing me to assist you with your computing needs. Your business is very important to me and I appreciate being able to help you!

As part of my ongoing commitment to you, my valued client, I believe it is vital that I maintain clear and precise 2-way communication with you. At anytime, you feel unclear about any topic, service, terminology used or explanations given - please let me know immediately so that I can clarify and review it with you.

My Promise and Agreement to You

I promise to provide you, my valued Client, with White-Glove, Expert, Customer Care and Service and an important part of this service is that you are at all times - comfortable and understand the answers, solutions and training delivered. To fulfill this goal, I am here to support you when you call, and to answer your technology questions efficiently and to provide you with solutions to meet your specific needs.

Your "First Contact" Promise to Me

I promise that any time I have a question, concern, or encounter an unknown situation, that my first call and contact will be to and with Your Tech Concierge™. I will not respond to unsolicited calls, e-mails, web pop-ups, mail notifications, or other 3rd party contact until I review it with Avie Uniglicht. While this should not be considered a demonstration of my ineptitude, to the contrary, it is purely a response to this promise that I make today to Your Tech Concierge™ to prevent any misunderstanding, miscommunication, or further challenge with my system, software and personal information that I find so important to maintain.

Your Tech Concierge™ is here to help you anytime you have a question or challenge and I look forward to helping you in a supportive relationship for many years to come.

Thanks so much again for your business! I very much "Av-preciate™" you!

Avie Uniglicht

www.AskAvie.com