Your Tech Concierge - “Room Service - Remotely Possible™”

Avie Uniglicht provides technology solutions to business owners who don't want to worry about the details and are ready to focus on the growth of their business.

Known as “Your Tech Concierge”, Avie is passionate about helping people solve their technology challenges quickly, so they are free to continue doing what they do best, so they see results, attain profitability, and enjoy their work.

With over thirty years of industry experience, Avie's extensive business background and a specialty in accounting has given him a talent for helping his clients see the bigger picture regarding their business and shows them how to evaluate things so they create an action plan with the end in mind. Through technology strategies, Avie helps people realize their goals by focusing on what they want to do so they don't get lost in the everyday minutiae and lose focus on what they ultimately want to achieve.

Avie enjoys solving his customers' most difficult challenges, providing tech support that maintains as well as trouble shoots, and he is always available. His concept of making virtual “house calls” is cited by his clients as invaluable and many of them say they couldn't live without him on speed dial. His clients say they trust him completely, that he is a wealth of knowledge and that he does nothing short of accomplishing miracles.

Avie has a BS from Temple University in Business Administration and graduated Summa Cum Laude. A former auditor for Price Waterhouse and past President of Ace Computer Center Inc., he is also the author of the e-Book, “Your Personal Computer Driver's License” and he is an affiliated source to many award-winning technology products and services.
